In our quest to pollute the internet with more foiling moth stuff...

<http://perverted-moth.blogspot.com/search/label/slino>

The bloog catalogues the build of a carbon and foam "plate" moth. The panels and frames were router cut, along with an MDF jig, and assembled in our spare time.

Enjoy.

In my heart, it will always be known as the boner pirate...

Thanks for the comments. Most of the ideas have worked well, just need to sort out the bloody gantry

Thanks for the comments. Most of the ideas have worked well, just need to sort out the bloody gantry and wand linkages now.

Just build it bloody strong. Order some carbon tube from CST. A heap of mothies work there (including the owner) so they will know exactly what you are talking about when you say "tube for a moth gantry".

The best part of this post is the unintentional coining of the term "bloog." Just awesome.

And nice boat.

That was not unintentional. It is all over Norkla's bloog.

It was unintentional originally, happens when you're trying to bloog wuickly at work!

Did I say that out loud...?

haha, exactly, shameless self promotion is becoming the norm in moths, hopefully it doesn't deter from their obvious coolness
